What is Flickr?

- Wikipedia says:
 - Flickr is an image and video hosting website, web services suite, and online community platform. In addition to being a popular Web site for users to share personal photographs, the service is widely used by bloggers as a photo repository. As of June 2009, it claims to host more than 3.6 billion images.

Your photography book, now

Step 1: Create your buddy icon

Your buddy icon is a small image that appears on the right to represent you. Right now, it looks like this:

You can use an image you've uploaded, or find a new image on your computer to make your new buddy icon.

Step 2: Choose your custom Flickr URL

One of the ways you can easily share your photostream with friends is to customize your Flickr URL.

This can't be changed later, so choose wisely!
